SAN FRANCISCO — Will you get more travel for your dollar in Britain now on the devalued pound?

I phoned friends here and in England, and the answer is probably not.

An airline executive in London said: "Air tickets will cost you the same whether you buy them in England or any other country that followed us and devalued their money. IATA ordered an immediate raise to meet the devalued difference." (IATA is the fare-fixing body. They keep all member airline fares equal.)

A BOAC man: "The fares will cost the same as they have been. But where we have tours, the extra dollar value will be added to the tour. That is, it might be translated into an extra night in England."

A British car dealer: "It may drop the cost of a British car in America a little. But certainly not the 14.3 per cent drop of the pound. I'd guess 3 per cent at most."

An American travel agent: "If you were in England right now, exchanging dollars for pounds, it would be good. But this is off-season. By summer when Americans start moving again, I'd bet the prices in British hotels and on Irish menus and Israeli taxis will have gone up. Just enough to cover the difference."

"If we drive in England and Scotland next summer, where do we get maps?"

I get the detailed maps from Regent Oil stations. They are in five sections—No. 5 is Ireland. They show you every narrow back road. And I am all for the quiet lanes and villages compared to the highways. They cost a shilling each.

A good one (10 miles to the inch if you can spread it out) is sold for 7 shillings and sixpence by Ward Lock and Co. Get it on big newsstands. An interesting supplemental map is put out by Ordnance Survey, "A Map of Roman Britain." The scale is 16 miles to the inch. Shows Roman towns, roads, fortifications. My copy says 15 shillings, but I remember I paid one pound.

The pound has dropped from $2.80 U.S. to $2.40. Hotel and food prices may go up, but map prices, books, probably stay the same. So you'll get some advantage.

Prices most likely to hold are those in round figure shillings. The one-shilling tip for the doorman for example.

"Can you tell me how to get information on Bunratty Castle in Ireland as we would like to stay there?"

They don't have rooms at Bunratty. That's the ancient O'Brien castle just outside Shannon Airport. They've put the inside together as a medieval setting. Each night they have a medieval dinner, and you must go. The dinner and entertainment is great.

Now for a castle: A few miles down the road is the later O'Brien castle (year 1500 and something). This is Dromoland Castle. They do take guests. And it's everything you think a castle should be. Towers and turrets and misty lakes seen from a beautiful high-ceilinged rooms. You can get a folder by writing Dromoland Castle Newmarket-on-Fergus, County Clare, Ireland.

Irish pounds are tied to the British pound. So you'll probably get some advantage in costs in Ireland, too.

"... some place in Mexico City to stay a few weeks that is quiet and interesting?"

A week ago I stopped overnight in Taxco and was put into a place I'd never heard of but is just what you want. A beautiful great guest house in the hills. You look down a thousand feet on all of Taxco. Called La Cumbre Sonada and more generally known as Clarita's. Not expensive. Get a folder by writing Clarita, Apdo. Postal 5, Taxco, Guerrero Mexico.

"Could you tell me about the cost of Swiss watches in Hong Kong?"

About half what you pay in America. A little less than the fixed prices of Switzerland. Hong Kong followed the British pound and devalued the HK dollar. But only 4.3 U.S. $1.

"How should we go about going to Hawaii as cheaply as possible?"

There's no cut-rate airline. The $100 one-way thrift fare from the West Coast is cheap. If you are under 22, you can go for $75. I'm much impressed with the paperback "Hawaii on $5 and $10 A Day." Good bargain advice.

Anza School Salutes Bill of Rights Week

Students at Anza Elementary School are observing Bill of Rights week with a series of events to be conducted during flag raising ceremonies each morning next week.

A special resolution commemorating the 176th anniversary of the Bill of Rights was adopted by the student body at the assembly Friday.

The resolution was read at the opening flag ceremony Monday. Other special events throughout the week will include the writing of a Bill of Responsibilities to go along with the Bill of Rights, the reading of original verses, and the singing of patriotic songs.

Bill of Rights materials will be displayed in the school cafeteria throughout the week.

Faculty advisor to the Bill of Rights activity committee is Robert Scharf. Committee members include: Craig Schoening, chairman, Beverly Knuchols, Lori Lundeen, and Vicki Edmondson.

Members of the Student Council committee which prepared the resolution are: Janine Lequin, chairman, Laure Williams, Craig Notch, and Judy Carlisle.

Housewife Injures Jaw In Accident

A young Torrance housewife suffered severe facial lacerations and possible multiple fractures to her lower jaw bone in an auto accident Saturday.

A car driven by her husband, Anton Hartwig, ran into a power pole on Torrance Boulevard near 212th Street about 6 p.m. The Hartwigs, who live at 4907 Cadillac, were both taken by ambulance to Little Company of Mary Hospital for treatment.

Police said they found several hand-rolled cigarettes resembling marijuana on the floor of the car.
